

Press Release

Turducken

written by Lisa Hodsohl

directed by Andrew Peters

produced by Theatrical Mining Company

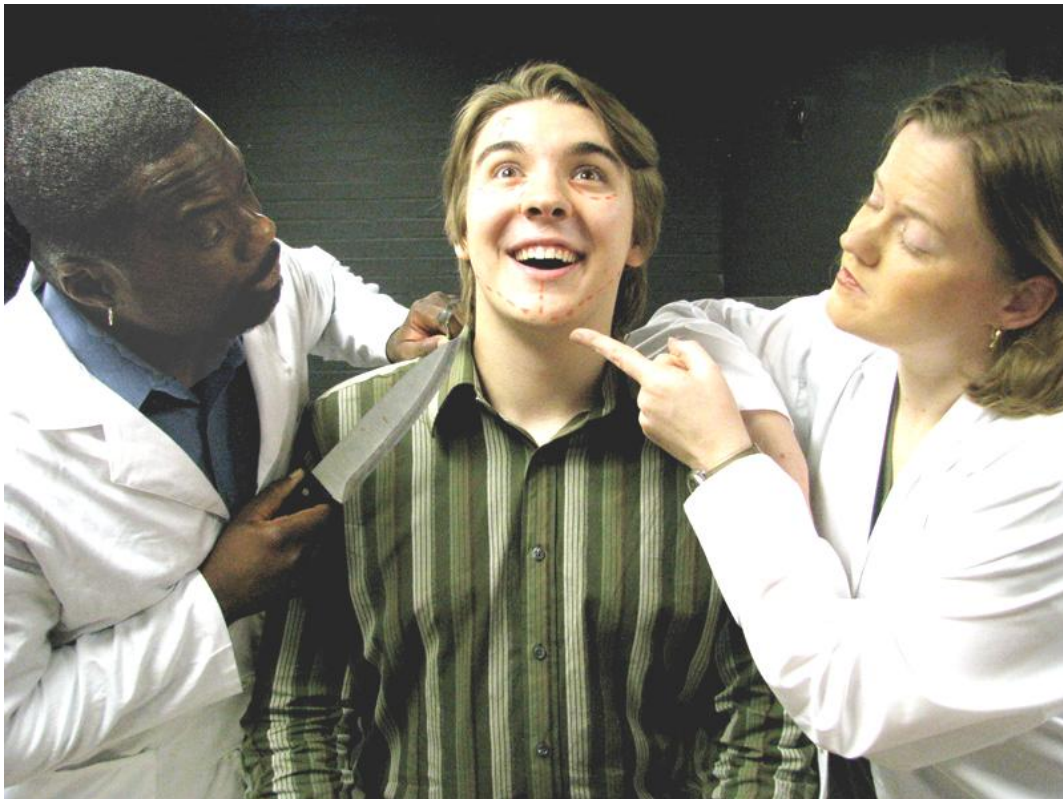

July 16 - August 2, 2009

Copeland Theater, LeClerc Hall, College of Notre Dame

Thurs-Fri-Sat 8:00 PM, Sun 7:00

presented as part of the Baltimore Playwrights Festival

It's Thanksgiving Eve at the hospital, and strange events are on the menu. Not just a missing body, but bargain-priced botox, Brazilian lifts, basement confessions, and office (let's call it) romance are all stuffed into this turducken, and flavored with a piquant sauce of prescription drugs. Come see this hilarious spoof of a Donald Trump inspired dream world.

Dr. Bennie Wang (Joseph M. Dunn, left) and Dr. Martha Grtthwkk (Joy Baldwin, right) opt to try an unorthodox new cosmetic procedure on Jeff Holiday (Adam Brooks, center).

Dr. Binder (Alexander Scally, center) puts up with the constant needs of (from L-R) pharmaceutical rep Ms. Goodee (Lyndsay Webb), Mrs. Von Shvonz (Ann Marie Feild), Dr. Bennie Wang (Joseph M. Dunn), and his slightly-obsessed secretary Stella Dora (Cristina Petrarca).

For more information, more photographs (media ready), and reservations please visit Theatrical Mining Comany's website at tmc.originalplays.com, or call 410-982-6979.